

Dr. Predrag Bozic, PhD

Head of Department for Motor Research and Sports Analytics at Serbian Institute of Sport and Sports Medicine

- PhD in sport science physical education and kinesiotherapy
- master and bachelor degree in strength and condition
- manages evaluation of physical and physiological performances, technical skills and injury risks of elite and talented athletes
- professional advisor for strength and conditioning in several national sport federations and clubs
- research interests are focused in assessment of neuromuscular function, injury prevention and rehabilitation, talent identification and development
- involved in realization of several national and international research projects
- author of numerous articles in respected scientific journals.